Miss Bolls and Mr. Trout Are Wed Monday

Mrs. W. W. Hart announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Rosa Lee Bolls, to Arlist Roy Trout, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Trout of Garden. The wedding was solemnized Monday evening, August 17, at 7:30.

The bride was lovely in a pink eyelet dress with matching hat and white accessories. Her carriage was of sweetheart roses and white.

Miss Marie Cross and Jack Butler were the only attendants.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Hope High School. They will make their home here.

Buffet Supper Honors Texas Visitor in the City

Complimenting her house guest, Miss Mary Louise Shum, of Austin, Texas, Miss Jean Begeman entertained with a delightful buffet supper at her home at the Southwestern Proving Ground Tuesday evening.

Her guest list included the honoree and Miss Marjory Diddy, Miss Nancy Hall, Edward Lester, G. Graham, Joe Wimberly, and John Shiver.

D. A. R. Committee in Luncheon Meet

Mrs. Charles A. Haynes was hostess to members of the year book committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution with a luncheon party at her home Wednesday at 1 o'clock.

The attractive luncheon table featured as its chaser color scheme various shades of yellow. Forming the artistic central ornament was a large crystal bowl of marigolds.

Covers were laid for Mrs. J. G. Martindale, Mrs. J. J. Battle, Mrs. Bob Cain, Mrs. E. F. McFaddin, Mrs. J. M. Houston and her guest, Mrs. C. C. Tall of Little Rock.

led by the regent, Mrs. Martindale, the group discussed plans for the ensuing club year, and the year book was completed.

Bennett-Valentine

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Maude Isabelle Bennett and Carlton Valentine, both of Hope, on Wednesday evening, August 19.

The ceremony was performed by the Reverend D. Wright of Spring Hill in the presence of relatives and friends.

Mr. Valentine is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther O. Valentine. The couple will make their home in Hope.

Brian Donlevy Gets Around

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood — Brian Donlevy is a fellow who gets around. He gets around to all the studios by design, so that pictures with his face in them will be at plenty of theaters all the time.

Stocky, husky Brian has no illusions about his face, but he figures an actor's face has to be seen to be remembered. He has been that way ever since his first picture.

He had been on the stage in New York, starting with "What Price Glory?" in the 20's. He had been in many plays that were bought by the movies and played with many actors who were signed by Hollywood, but Donlevy was given a wide berth. He was in "The Milky Way" when Harold Lloyd bought it for pictures.

Gladys George and Hugh O'Connell of the play's cast were signed for the movie, but not Donlevy. He got sore and went out on his own.

By the time his few hundred dollars were gone he had met a lot of people who didn't see him as the type. Just before returning to New York he remembered he had not seen Bob McNellyre, who was casting director for Goldwyn.

"Wait a minute," said Bob. "I may have something for you."

He sent Donlevy to see Director Howard Hawks, who in turn sent him to see Goldwyn. They both went to the high sign, and Brian went to the wardrobe department for a costume.

That was where Brian thought about his face. The part was a western "heavy." Brian selected garments: Black pants, black belt, black shirt, black belt, black tie, black hat—even black gloves. Instead of a flashing silver pistol he picked a small black dagger—to carry in his back pocket.

Hawks made him skip the gloves (whereupon he hid his hands), but his face stood out in "Barbary Coast" like a beacon in a blackout.

He was "in." Three years at 20th Century-Fox learning about the movies in B pictures, then moved up.

Jesse James, "Union Pacific," "Beau Geste," "The Great McGinty," "Wake of the Galleons," and the current "Clear for Action" are just a few of the films that have kept him busy.

Donlevy began getting around early. From Ireland, where he was born, to Sheboygan Falls, Wis., where as a boy he staged Saturday night showings at movie houses. His next stop was Annapolis, and more amateur theatricals. When the world disarmed many naval academy students resigned, Brian among them.

He headed for Broadway, invited by an artist to whom he had written a fan letter.

While he tried to crash the stage, the artist J. C. Leyendecker gave him a job as gardener, handy man, and model. The Donlevy face appeared on many Saturday Evening Post covers—as handsome collar-ad types, as Santa Claus, as

"And I hate to admit this," says the burly he-man actor, "but once I was on the cover as Cleopatra!"

Alleys Behind City Half Being Paved

Work has been started on the paving of the alleys behind the city hall. Property owners in this block supplied the money three years ago when the black-topping project was under way, but the failure of the black-topping to materialize delayed the work on this job. The work is under the supervision of Ed Barger and the city street committee, of which J. M. Stripling is chairman.

CIO Aluminum Work Discuss Reports

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19 —(P)—Committeemen of the CIO aluminum workers union gathered here today (2 p. m. Eastern War time) to discuss a report of their president that union members are urging a general strike be called in the war-essential aluminum industry. President Nick A. Onorich said the members favored strike action unless the war labor board reconsider its decision denying them a wage increase or President Roosevelt "intervenes directly" in the case.

The board refused the union's demand for $1-a-day pay raise on grounds the workers had already received more than a 15 per cent increase since January 1, 1941. The company, which has more than 55,000 employees, told the board it had increased wages by 23 per cent in this period, in addition to a seven-cents-an-hour increase given workers in its southern plants to lower sectional pay differentials.

The union represents about 32,000 employees at the following plants: New Kensington, Pa., Detroit, Edgewater, N. J., Alcoa, Tenn., Bauxite, Ark., Badin, N. C., and Bridgeport-Fairfield, Conn.

Russian Gets to the Point

By JACK STINNETT
Washington — From the Capital Warfront:

Alexei Tolstoy, who bears a name that has been great in Russian literature for several generations, doesn't mince words when he writes in the Soviet Embassy Information Bulletin: "Kill the beast! That is your sacred law. Concentrate all your strength to strike the enemy to the very heart; learn to kill him with the full vigor of hatred. To wipe out Fascism is essential to freedom and happiness. To kill the enemy is your sacred duty to civilization. Cherish your hatred for the enemy. Be proud of it. It is the banner of your victory."

Now you know why Hitler has found the Russians hard to crack on the eastern front.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, called on C. C. Berrill, president of the American Federation of Musicians, to stand by his pledge of Dec. 27, 1941 ("Each and every member of the federation and its officers, pledge themselves on this occasion to do everything possible to aid in the fight for freedom . . . to fight with every weapon at their command . . . the federation dedicates itself to Music For Morale").

Davis said that he asked this: "On behalf of the people of the United States, and on behalf of the War Department, the Navy Department, the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, the Treasury Department, the Office of Civilian Defense, and the Office of War Information."

As far as "on behalf of" go, that's what we call swinging in the groove.

Grim reminder (From official Army bulletin): Letters sent to American prisoners of war or civil internees should be addressed thus: (1) Full name and rank; (2) Prisoner of War number; if for the Orient, say only "formerly of Wake, Guam, or wherever else the prisoner was at time of capture"; (3) Prison camp by name and number — or in the case of the Orient, the phrase, "Held by Japan"; (4) Country in which camp is located; (5) In care of International Red Cross, Geneva, Switzerland — or for Japan, in care of Japanese Red Cross, Tokyo; (6) Via Chicago.

Such letters need no postage, but must be marked in the upper left hand corner, "Prisoner of War" (or "Civilian Internee") — Postage Free. Letters must be typewritten or written so plainly that no words are in doubt. Name of sender and return address must be on back of envelope.

Shave should be left on front of envelope for a possible forwarding address.

Chinese Retake Port of Wenchow From Jap

Chungking, Aug. 19 —(P)—Chinese forces have recaptured Wenchow, important port on the southern Chekiang province coast which the Japanese seized a month ago, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

Its communique, however, reported that Chinese defenders were compelled by heavy Japanese pressure to abandon Suichang, in south-western Chekiang. The victory and defeat occurred the same day, last Saturday, the communique said.

Sharp Decline in Oil Field Activity

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 19 —(P)—The Oil and Gas Journal notes a continuation of the sharp decline in oil field activity and declares it is causing oil field workers to seek employment in other industries in ever-increasing numbers.

If the loss of manpower is not checked, the Journal says, "the industry will be unable to meet a demand for crude oil which may arise in the next two years."

Gandhi's Son Picked Up by the British

New Delhi, Aug. 19 —(P)—Devadas Gandhi, son of the Hindu leader and managing editor of the Hindustan Times, was arrested today under the defense of India rules.

His father, Mohandas K. Gandhi, was taken into custody by the British on August 9, just after the All India Congress party had made him generalissimo of a civil disobedience drive for immediate Indian independence.

52 Renominated as State Representatives

Little Rock, Aug. 19 —(P)—More than half the 1942 House of Representatives will have at least one term's experience, 52 members of the 1941 House having been renominated at the recent Democratic primaries.

The Madison, Searcy and Newton county representatives will not be known until after the November general election since those counties have large Republican voting strengths. Republicans represented Madison and Newton in 1941.

Two women representatives, Miss Allene Word of Mississippi county and Mrs. Ella B. Hurst of Washington county, will be in the 1942 House.

The House has 100 members.

Football Fans Are Promised Plenty of Action

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
 New York, Aug. 20. — Although college footballers by the hundreds have entered the armed services, competent coaches promise that you'll get your money's worth for a seat on the 50-yard line this fall.

Most of the mentors acknowledge that the polish and finesse of former years may be lacking in a slight way but all agree, in a survey made by the Associated Press, that the spectacular will become much more common and that upsets will be lurking behind every goal post.

Rex Enright of South Carolina University says he expects a slight drop in the caliber of play but "that it will not be apparent to the general public because of the evenness. There will be more variance in the quality of play from week to week because of poor reserves and the use of freshmen and this will mean more upsets."

Another coach compared the drop in quality with a track meet, declaring that the average fan "can't tell the difference between a 4:08 and a 4:12 one-mile run without a stop watch."

Many conferences, led by the Big Three of Yale, Harvard and Princeton, will use freshmen—forecasting fumbles and surprise touchdowns.

Only the larger circuits—Big Ten, Pacific Coast, Big Six, Southwest, Southern and Southeastern—ed eight hits over seven innings in beating Braves.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Aug. 20. — The Berlin radio is broadcasting the glad news these days that Walter Neuse, who was knocked out by Max Schmeling, Primo Carnera and Tommy Farr, will fight Adolf Neuser, who is champion although he was flattened by Neuse in 1941, again Sept. 6 for the German heavyweight championship. They fought a "hotly contested draw" in Hamburg a few weeks ago and you know what happened to Hamburg afterward. They might try matching the winner with that great Japanese batter, "Piston" Horiguchi. Of course, Piston is only a featherweight, but who likes an even match over there?

So universal has their use become however, that Amherst and Tufts are the only schools in New England not playing the Neophytes. The Mountain Six, formerly the Big Seven; Rocky Mountain, and Missouri Valley loops have endorsed the youngsters.

 The other night Manager Ducky Holmes of the Dayton (O.) middle Atlantic league club raised a ruckus about the decisions the umpires in Canton were giving him.

"Finally the umpire ordered Ducky out of the game and, when Holmes refused to leave, called a cop to escort him off the field. 'There wasn't a policeman present, so the arbiter forfeited the game to Canton.' Now Ducky is protesting the forfeit on the grounds that the home club is required to provide police at the park and violated the rules by not having a cop there to toss him out. How would you decide it?"

Adler is Tops With Harmonic

By GEORGE TUCKER
 New York—A development of the theatrical and supperclub season has been that Larry Adler, virtuoso of the harmonica, has emerged as an imposing nightclub personality. It is known that Larry has trouped theatrical stages and has taken concert stages in his stride for more years than he cares to remember, yet this—at least to my knowledge—is the first time he has moved into the Manhattan clubs and established himself with a savvier fare that would make even the Hartmans take notice.

I used to know Larry in the old unit-house days when the week's bills were ornamented with a bevy of Chester Hale dancing beauties and sent on the Loews-United Artists circuit throughout the east and the mid-west. He arrived with his urchins—one vast covey of fluttering rags—and wowed 'em. I never saw Larry lay an egg.

Biography: Adler was 14 when he became the "Mouthin of the mouth organ." All his life he longed to do with the mouth organ what Kreisler had done with the fiddle. He wanted to lift the harmonica from the sidewalks and put it on genteel ground. Instead of exclusively playing Macy's Tin Pan Alley music, he studied the classics. After all, a rose by any other name is just as sweet, and the same is true of Tschalkowsky's 5th a la Adler. It is one of the interesting episodes of his life that he personally received from Ravel permission to score "The Bolero" for harmonica. Kreisler applauded him for "Caprice Viennoise" on the mouth organ. The late George Gershwin placed his "Rhapsody in Blue."

He has worked with Toscanini, Stokowski and Beecham. He knew Paris before the Boches came, and London and all the places that used to connote other matters than war and carnage.

So it is that those who wander into the Savoy Plaza will find Adler, the man who, in his way, built a better mouse trap. Nobody ever played the harmonica better than Larry Adler, and that is all you can say for any man.

Sudden Collapse of Reds, Indians Baffles Fans

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Associated Press Sports Writer
 If the baseball fans of Ohio have any knack for solving puzzles, they might use that talent to good advantage right now by finding a reason for the sudden collapse of their two entries in the major leagues.

Not so many days ago the Cleveland Indians were runners-up in the American league, the Cincinnati Reds were skipping along in third place in the National loop, and citizens of the Buckeye state were speculating on the possibility of an All-Ohio world series for the first time in history.

Each team has lost nine of its last eleven games. The Reds have dropped into fourth place; only three games away from the second division. The Indians are hanging on to third in the American league by four percentage points but will find themselves sharing that position if the St. Louis Browns win today.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, gunning for Cincinnati's first division place handed the Reds their sixth setback in a row yesterday and beat Paul Derringer in the bargain, 9-2. The drubbing left the Reds 5-2 games behind the third-place New York Giants, who were idle.

The Detroit Tigers pasted the third straight loss on the Indians, 6-1, in a twilight game. Virgil Trucks pitched six hit ball for the Tigers and had the help of a three-run homer by Rudy York which bounced Jim Bagby in the third inning, and another round-tripper by Ned Harris.

Elsewhere in the American league, the Philadelphia Athletics shut out the Washington Senators, 8-0, in a night game, and the Boston Red Sox divided a doubleheader with the New York Yankees, continuing a stretch duel that would be most interesting if the Yanks were not 11-2 games ahead.

A pair of homers by Jim Tabor and another by Ted Williams accounted for all of Boston's runs and a 6-4 triumph in first game as Tex Hugheson limited the Yankees to seven hits for his 10th pitching victory and his tenth in a row.

Currier Keller, who hit his 20th homer run in the opener, smothered No. 21 with the score tied in the ninth inning of the nightcap to break up a pitching duel between Ernie Bonham and Joe Dobson and gave New York a 2-1 decision.

Ernie Bonham and Joe Dobson in third place in the National loop, and citizens of the Buckeye state were speculating on the possibility of an All-Ohio world series for the first time in history.

The National league pennant chase, the Brooklyn Dodgers crushed the Boston Braves 11-1, but the St. Louis Cardinals stayed 6-1-2 games behind by walloping the Chicago Cubs, 5-1, in a night contest.

Mort Cooper distributed seven hits in beating the Cubs for the first time in three attempts this season, while the Cards clipped Lon Warneke and Vern Olsen for 12 blows, including home runs by Walker Cooper and Enos Slaughter.

The Dodgers pounded four Boston pitchers for 19 this, three each by Pete Reiser, Dolph Camilli and Billy Herman. Curt Davis hurled eighth ball for his 13th triumph but missed his 13th shutout when Eddie Miller nicked him for a homer.

FOR TRAFFIC COMFORT TRY AN OAT-BURNER

Baltimore (P)—Tip to tourists: You'll make out fine in Baltimore traffic with a horse and buggy. After a motorist complained that traffic lights were synchronized for a horse and buggy, the Baltimore Evening Sun hired a horse (Mr. Chips), a buggy, and sent a liveryman and reporter out to investigate. Jogging along at 6 miles an hour, Mr. Chips ambled up and down three main thoroughfares, stopping for nary a light. Automobiles whisked by him, but Mr. Chips often pulled abreast at the next traffic light. Despite Mr. Chips, police insisted the lights were synchronized for a brisk 18-miles per hour.

Arkansans Take Part in Commando Raid

London, Aug. 20 —(AP)—The United States flyers who participated in the Flying Fortress attack on the Ruhr Monday — from which all planes returned safely — were announced yesterday.

Sergeants Pierce Tyloer, Route 3, Greenbrier, Ark.; Jack C. Elliott, 2024 N. Tenth St., Independence, Mo.; Edward W. Swedo, 6210 Shattman St., St. Joseph, Mo.; Allan Williams, DeQueen, Ark.

Lieutenant Ralph Burridge of Louisiana, Mo.

In announcing the names, U. S. Army headquarters described the raid as "unusually successful" and said photographs showed a majority of the bombs fell within a radius of 300 yards of the freight yards.

Because of their use both for food and oil, peanuts are being produced at a 155 per cent increase over 1941.

A TRIP TO KANSAS

CHAPTER XII

THE campaign for an honest city government was a triumph for the Courier. Never had there been such interest in an election. Jim worked endlessly, tirelessly. Absorbed in the campaign, Jim found little time to check activities on the plateau above Kirktown. Steam shovels were busy now, digging foundations, clearing the land for the ambitious project Charlie Jones had undertaken for Penny.

"Why don't you take a little vacation?" Penny suggested. "You certainly have earned one. Now that the election rush is over, I can handle the paper. You really should take it easy—for your own good."

"I wish I could get back to Kansas," Jim chuckled. "Mom would be so full of corn I'd chuck me a chicken. And speaking of n, Penny, you should take the ones she fries. Nothing like it in the world."

"Go ahead, Jim," she urged. "Visit our folks. Forget the paper. I'll be better for it when you come back."

"Penny," Jim said, "I will go back! I want to tell the folks about you. This time I'll go alone. Next time, you're coming with me." He babbled happily, excitedly, about his folks and the scenes of his childhood. Once he had made up his mind, he couldn't bear the delay of packing and waiting for a train.

At the station he poured last-minute instructions to Penny. "I'll miss you, Penny," Jim whispered. "A month is a long time to be away from you." Yes—a month was a long time, she reflected, as she waved goodbye to the fast-receding train.

IN the busy weeks that followed, she found time to visit the Kirk offices once more. "Mr. Stimson," Penny told the executive, "I've come to ask you to accompany me on a trip through the mills. I want to meet all the men. I want a speaker's platform, and a microphone. I have something to say to them. Can you have everything ready tomorrow?" Stammering, the surprised Stimson agreed to make the preparations she demanded.

Daily, Penny drove to the plateau where construction of New Kirktown was progressing with amazing speed. "There's one building that must be finished within a month," she told Charlie Jones. "That's the Courier building."

"We'll have it done," the archi-test assured her, "well ahead of schedule."

Penny arrived at the mills to find the steel workers gathered curiously about the flag-draped platform erected for her.

"Fellows," Penny said, "I have a confession to make. I'm not Penny Kellogg. I'm Penelope Kirk. I came into the mills the way I did to find out for myself what you're like and to learn what we can do to work together so that everyone will profit and everyone will be happy." Silence filled the room.

"I know some of your grievances," she continued. "They're going to be corrected. They're going to have an office right here in the mill. I want you to come in and see me any time you have anything on your mind. We're going to work together to make this the swiftest steel outfit in the country. What do you say?"

They said it, lustily and loudly. Penny was happy now, happier than ever before in her life. Three weeks had passed since Jim left. In another week Jim would return to share with her the pleasures she had planned so carefully.

She parked her car in front of the Courier office, late in the afternoon. She was surprised to find the front door open. She walked in.

There stood Jim. The look in his eyes hurt her—worse than physical pain. "Jim," was all that Penny could say. "Jim." She had never seen him like this. Tired. Bitter. His eyes harsh.

FOR an endless moment he said nothing. He merely stood there, silent, ominous, tense. "Take a good look, Jim. Vickers, sucker. That's me. Look at me and laugh. You've had a good time, haven't you?" His words burned.

"But, Jim," she protested. "You wrote to me every day. You promised to write me about everything that happened in town. What changed your mind?" He didn't wait for an answer. "I know. It would be fun to surprise me. When I came back I'd find Penelope Kirk's name in the masthead instead of Penny Kellogg's, and a new building for the Courier instead of my dumpy basement."

"You neglected one thing. You forgot that my folks are on the mailing list. I saw the last issue of the Courier in spite of your failure to send one to me. I saw the architect's drawings of New Kirktown." He laughed bitterly. "You certainly go a long way to carry out a joke. What fun it will be to tell your friends about the poor sap who wanted a new town and came back from his vacation and there it was. Like a kid getting a present from Santa Claus."

"Tell them what a fool I was. I thought you were poor and friendless and wanted love. Tell them I actually made love to you. Tell them the poor sap actually thought you loved him. Good joke, isn't it?" He turned on his heel and walked out.

Wearily, Penny closed the office door. She slid into her roadster and drove slowly to the apartment. It still shared with Midge. She packed her clothes and a few little trinkets. Her luggage she placed in the trunk of her car. To Midge she wrote a brief, friendly farewell note.

When she reached the Courier office the sun had already descended. She groped for a light switch, and the bright glare momentarily blinded her. As her vision cleared, she stared in astonishment.

Grotesquely uncomfortable, Jim was slumped in the swivel chair he had rescued from the ruins of the old office. His head rolled crazily along the back edge of the chair. On the table in front of him stood an empty whisky bottle. Shocked, Penny stood still, debating what to do next. She remembered his steadfast resolution to refrain from drinking. Once before, drink had ruined his career. Suddenly the answer she sought dawned on her.

"Don't you see?" she asked herself. "He needs you! He can't get along without you! You've won him! He's yours!"

Jim had thrown his ancient valise in a corner. She carried it out to his dusty car, placing the heavy grip tenderly on the back seat. She removed her own luggage from the roadster and placed it beside his. She had some difficulty in rousing him sufficiently so that he could walk with her, unsteadily, to the decrepit vehicle he loved so well.

"Jim needs me," she repeated over and over again. "He needs me. He needs me!" Now there was music in Penny's heart. Never had the night seemed so glorious. Never had a trip seemed so pleasant. Jim's car creaked and groaned protestingly, but she wouldn't want it otherwise.

"Okay, Jim," she said softly. "Just take it easy. You still have another week's vacation in Kansas coming to you. Remember your promise? You said you'd take me with you next time you went to Kansas. I want to meet your mom and dad. Besides, I'll need your mother's recipe for fried chicken."

American Newsman Gives Account of Dieppe Raid

(Editor's note: Gault MacGowan, correspondent of the New York Sun, was chosen by lot to be among the American newspaper representatives in London to cover the great raid on Dieppe. He watched the operations from a warship.)

By GAULT MacGOWAN

Representing the American Correspondents in London.
London, Aug. 20 —(AP)—Storming the French coast at Dieppe in the biggest operation of its kind in this war, American, Canadian, British and Fighting French units carried out a complete test of what must be done to insure a successful landing on the continent. And it was the perfect harmony of the sea, land and air forces which made it possible.

Overhead British planes gave the biggest demonstration of an air umbrella that I have ever seen. Spitfires and Hurricanes roared in bunches. Scores of times it was impossible to see the full extent of the sky battle which ranged far and wide over the district.

But one did not have to wait long for the first victory — it was a case of first blood for the Nazis as a Spitfire came down in a straight dive into the sea. In a moment we have revenge as we saw first one and then two Nazi planes crashing down and a white parachute trailing across the sky to show where another German had bailed out.

The official figures showing relatively a 50-50 ratio of air casualties do not reflect the picture of Dieppe where, although bombs splashed in the sea around us, never for one moment was there doubt of the safety of the vast scattered fleet of all types of craft which lay at anchor or drifted hour after hour unchallenged except by the defenders on shore whose machineguns continued to make the approaches of landing craft a gamble with death.

Inn Keeper Given 2-Year Sentence

Little Rock, Aug. 20 —(AP)—Recommending a two year sentence, a jury last night convicted James W. Smith, 43, former tavern operator here, of voluntary manslaughter for slaying Damon Stubblefield, 33, department store employee.

Cholera Hits Jap Invaders

Chungking, Aug. 20 —(AP)—The Chinese Central News reported today that between 3,000 and 4,000 persons had died of cholera in Japanese-occupied Tongyueh in Japanese Yunnan province, where Japanese forces penetrated southwest China after their conquest of Burma.

Central News said Japanese troops were among the victims of the epidemic.

Meanwhile, in eastern China, Chinese dispatches said, the military position had been stabilized further by Chinese recapture of Wenchow and the widening to 60 miles of the gap between Japanese forces seeking to strike from east and west toward each other along the Kiangsi railway.

The Japanese have made a number of efforts to close the gap, the Chinese advised, but now were reported digging in around Yingtan in the west and Shangjiao in eastern Kiangsi.

Today's high command communiqué said that following the recapture of Wenchow Japanese remnants around the town were mopped up.

Ninety miles to the northwest, outside Sulchang, fighting is still in progress, the communiqué said, although the Chinese evacuated the town on Aug. 15.

A Chinese Army spokesman reported that high Japanese officers, led by Gen. Shunroku Hata, former commander of Japanese forces in central China, visited Mongolia last month.

He said the visit evidently was intended to strengthen the defenses of Inner Mongolia, which borders on Soviet-protected outer Mongolia, and reported road-building equipment had been sent there by the Japanese.

Norfolk Dam to Start Operating Next Year

Little Rock, Aug. 20 —(AP)—The first 30,000-kilowatt unit of the $28,000,000 Norfolk dam in north Arkansas will be ready for operation in September 1943 — six months ahead of schedule, Rep. Clyde T. Ellis announced last night.

Ellis said construction had been stepped up to an around-the-clock basis. The dam, a flood control project, will have an immediate installed hydro-electric capacity of 60,000 KW and an eventual 120,000 KW capacity.
